

McGILL CLASH WITH HIGHLANDERS TONIGHT

Second Half of Company
Ski Meet This Week-endcalling all co-eds
by winifredSunday at St. Sauveur
—Slalom and Cross
Country

The first of the Intersection tournaments started off on Wednesday in Montreal High School gymnasium at 5 p.m. when section A-1 met section A-11 in a fast exciting game. Although there was lack of one player on each team and a considerable sparsity of spectators, the game was highly entertaining. During the first period the A-11 squad had a slight edge over their opponents and it looked as if they might be victorious. However, during the second frame the A-1 quintette asserted themselves and came out on top with the final score being 18-6.

Both teams were honoured by the presence of some of the best coed basketballers in the university, and if the other sections are equally fortunate the games should prove extremely interesting to watch.

The next game in the series will take place this Monday from 5-6 p.m. in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium when the members of Section C-II will meet Section D-I. All spectators are cordially welcomed, and it is hoped that all members of C-II and D-I basketball teams will take note of the game is Monday at 5 p.m. A schedule of the following games has been posted on the R.V.C. notice board for those who are interested in or taking part in these freys. Players are urged to turn out if possible as defaulting means giving the opposing team full points, equivalent to what a team receives on a winning game.

The various ladder tournaments in Ping Pong, Archery and Badminton in the new Intersection program will take place during the three weeks from Monday January 27 till February 24th. It is hoped that a swimming meet may be arranged on or near March the 5th. Skiing as everyone knows has taken place already with very successful results, and there will be meetings in the Laurentians almost every week end.

As there is such a large and interested group of coeds interested in Fencing, it has been suggested that they hold an Intersection Fencing meet for Beginners and Advanced groups, and also put on some kind of an exhibition during one evening later on in the term.

With so much talk of the various competitions that are going to take place it might be advisable to explain the point system that has been worked out by the M.W.S.A.A. in order to classify in the best way possible the ten sections that are taking part. There will be a very large chart six foot five inches square which will be set up in the R.V.C. Upper gymnasium. It will have ten thermometers, each one representing a section, and the points will be scored as follows: First of all there will be two types of elimination tournaments (a) teams and (b) individual. In (a) type 5 points will be awarded to each team that has played and won its FIRST GAME, and when all games have been played the first and second places will be awarded 50 and 30 points respectively. In (b) type first and second places will be awarded 30 and 20 points respectively at the conclusion of the tourney. The ladder tournament will be run on the following lines.

THIS IS WHAT THE REDMEN ARE UP AGAINST

Finishing up very strongly in the third period, the Toronto Maple Leafs showed that they had what it took, and handed our Flying Frenchmen their first defeat in three games by the score of 3-2 at the Forum last night. It was another hard-luck game for the Invinites as they displayed fine form and speed before a packed house of 12,000 people. The teams were tied at 2-2 until six minutes before the end of the game, when "Sweeney" Schriner took a pass from Billy Taylor, and beat Bert Gardiner with a high shot into the right hand corner of the net. Gardiner was flat on his stomach and did not have a chance. The game really belonged to the Canadiens but it was the Toronto Goalie that turned the tide on them every time thus deciding the game.

First Period.

Both teams set a fast pace at the beginning of the game with big Jack Portland leading the way. He made one rush after another. Kenny Reardon broke away on a solo effort and split the Toronto defence to be robbed by a brilliant save by Broda. At 6.35 Charlie Sands raced down the right wing receiving a relayed pass from Reardon and Getliffe and beat Broda with a hard shot into the twine putting the Habitués ahead 1-0. A few minutes later Tony Demers tore in with only the goalie to beat but Broda came ten yards out of his net to stop the play. About half way through the period, Apps broke away with Drillon and Metz and beat Gardiner drawing the Canuck goalie out and tying up the score. With 15 seconds to go to win the period, Getliffe put the home team ahead on passes from Drouin and Sands ending the period with the score Canadiens 2, Toronto 1.

Second Period.

The line of Adams, Lach and Demers made things pretty hot for the Toronto goal tender, and Demers almost scored but was held by MacDonald. This action wasn't approved by the millionaire section, and consequently the ice was showered with paper. Polly Drouin displayed some fine stick handling, but just couldn't click for a goal. Toronto had Canadiens hemmed up in their own end of the rink for several minutes, which ended in Goupille and Davidson getting sent to the cooler for high-sticking. Toe Blake had two good chances to score, one on a beautiful pass from Benoit, but failed in both attempts. Demers and Lach teamed up nicely, and almost beat Broda who fell to the ice for the save. Drillon tied the game up at 17.30 on passes from Apps and Stanowski.

Skaters Will Supply Thrills
Between Periods

An anxious McGill hockey team eagerly awaits the first chance of the current season to get back into action. When they do appear it will be to tangle with a fast, experienced well trained Black Watch aggregation. What the Red Men have missed in not playing in active competition may very well be regained by a Black Watch defeat. The strength of the college squad tonight may very easily affect the decision of the athletic board in granting the College the right to replay in active competition.

Hugh Farquharson has been doing a thorough, well planned job of turning out a new McGill machine. He will be remembered as one of the greatest puck chasers the college ever saw. Another old standby in the McGill hockey world, Dr. Bobby Bell will act as an official; Cammy Dickison and Andy Anton have stepped up to battle once more for the Alma Mater.

McGILL OPPOSITION

Among those who have worn the Red and White in other years and who will oppose it tonight, are Ronnie Perowne, voted Montreal's outstanding athlete last year; Alex Hamilton, captain of last year's McGill football team; Doug Smail, a reliable veteran of the hockey wars.

Supporting the McGill grads are several tested players of last year's team. They include Walter Johnson, Grant Morrison, Bill MacDonald, Gordie Young and Earl Smith. To complete the squad men experienced in junior and other ranks of hockey will be ready for the battle.

A Black Watch victory tonight will give them a chance to disprove the claim of the 7th Hussars to the greatest army hockey team in the world.

FANCY SKATING.

A varied program of fancy skating by many of Canada's outstanding artists will be presented between periods and before the game starts. The artists who will perform are popular members of the local Winter Club and will compete in the Canadian Figure Skating Championships next week.

Another great name at the Forum tonight will be Pat Christie, winner of the D.F.C. and a former student of McGill. He will start the tussle off when he tosses in the puck at the opening whistle.

Both regiments will attend in large numbers. The Black Watch on one side of the Forum, the M.R.T.B. on the other. Two brass bands with two pipe bands will blaze forth to urge the teams on.

HAIL! ALMA MATER
Hail! Alma Mater, we sing to thy praise,
Great our affection, tho' feeble our lays;
Nestling so peaceful and calm
'neath the hill
Fondly we love thee our dear old McGill.

PUT ON YOUR RED AND WHITE
SWEATER

Put on your red and white sweater,
For you'll have none better,
And we'll open up another keg of beer
For it's not for knowledge
That we came to college,
But to raise H— all the year.

JAMES MCGILL

James McGill, James McGill,
Peacefully he slumbers there,
Blissful though we're on the tear,
James McGill, James McGill,
He's our father, well, yes, rather,
James McGill.

THERE'LL ALWAYS BE AN ENGLAND

There'll always be an England
While there's a country lane;
Wherever there's a cottage small
Beside a field of grain.

There'll always be an England
While there's a busy street;
Wherever there's a turning wheel
A million marching feet.

Red, white and blue, what does it mean to you?
Surely you're proud, shout it aloud,
Britons awake,
The Empire, too, we can depend on you,
Freedom remains, these are the chains
Nothing can break.

THE ROYAL HIGHLANDERS

We are the Royal Highlanders, we come from Verdun
We come from good old Westmont
—and some from Cote St. Paul
And when we get to Germany we'll
show them we are the best
We're the boys to stop the bullets
with the Molson's on our chest.

So let's away to Germany will be our battle cry
So let's away to Germany, we'll drink before we die
And when we get to Germany we'll
show them we are the best
We're the boys to stop the bullets
with the Molson's on our chest.

BONNIE DUNDEE

Come All up my cup, come fill up my can
Come saddle my horses, and call
out my men,
Unhook the west port and let us
gae free
For it's up with the bonnets of
Bonnie Dundee.

HIGHLAND LADDIE

Where ha' ye been a' the day,
Bonnie laddie, Highland
laddie!
Saw ye him that's far away, Bonnie
laddie! Highland laddie!
On his head a bonnet blue Bonnie
laddie, Highland laddie!
Tartan plaid and Highland trew
Bonnie laddie, Highland
laddie!

THE GARB OF OLD GAUL

In the garb of old Gaul with the fire of old Rome
From the heath-covered mountains of Scotia we come,
Where the Romans endeavour'd our country to gain
But our ancestors fought and they fought not in vain.

Such is our love of liberty, our country and our laws
That like our ancestors of old, we stand by freedom's cause,
We'll bravely fight, like heroes bold,
for honour and applause
And defy our foes with all their arts, to alter our laws.

The Student's Task

Stephen Leacock, Sr., wrote an article in the Daily a couple of years ago entitled "On the Need for a Quiet College." In it he said that a college far removed from the outside world, its wars, revolutions, and taxes, a non-co-educational college, was his ideal of a university. There, in close personal contact with each and all professors the students would be able to get down to some real study. In Mr. Leacock's college there would be no extra-curricular activities—absolutely nothing but study—and the graduates, men who had really accomplished something, would be prepared to work for the betterment of society. They would leave the imprint of their deeds upon the world.

Whether we agree or disagree with the method, none will gainsay the aim. The purpose of the university was the same yesterday, is the same today, and will be the same tomorrow. Unfortunately it is true that we cannot remove the university to a spot where events in the world will have no effect upon the students, and consequently we must make the best of it.

On thing is definite, that the present unrest in the world is having an influence on the students, an influence which is detrimental to their scholastic success. The effect is both psychological and economic, and so far, no attempt has been made to remove either. Now is the time to begin to do so.

If the war continues, as we believe it will, for some time to come, it appears quite likely that there will be a considerable decrease in the number of students attending college. The psychological factor will result in loss of incentive and interest in courses, so that many young men will leave to enlist in the armed forces, and the economic factor will either force many to leave college for lack of funds, or will entice them through high wages to enter industry.

The economic factor might partly be eliminated by increased grants and bursaries, but it will be more difficult to offset the effects of the psychological. Enlistments will undoubtedly be the main difficulty. It is quite natural that young men should be anxious to serve their country in its time of need, but it is our firm belief that most students should wait until they graduate before they enlist. They can far better serve their country as qualified graduates than as people who once attended college for a year or two.

A war has the faculty of making a person feel that nothing is very important, that if hostilities don't go on forever, the resulting changes they will bring about will be so vast that a college degree will be relatively unimportant. The prosecution of the war is the predominant thought in the minds of all.

This attitude and the co-existent nervous tension should not dominate our minds. The events of the war should be perused with a calm, thoughtful outlook. Students must consider how they can best help, and then calmly and efficiently set out to prepare themselves for their chosen tasks.

War is an emergency, much like a fire, and only by collected and clear-cut understanding of what their duty is towards the emergency can students capably cope with the emergency.

SCRATCHPAD JOTTINGS

By L. E. A.

The Newspaper PM

New York's newest tabloid may survive after all. Which is good news. Not that tabloids have done much to further the cause of upstanding journalism in America, but PM is something special, despite its format. PM, as its banner announces, "sells no advertising." "PM belongs to no political party" and it retails at five cents. All of which adds up to two strikes on the striking journal, and no balls.

Breaking into Gotham's highly competitive news beat was no cinch. The News appeared to have the tabloid trade buffaloed. And the Post, boasting a fine new face with Sam Grafton as its highly reputed columnist star had collared whatever liberal and leftwing readers the town could boast of. Times and Tribune territory was untouchable. But, fortified with several millions of dollars, and a bag of new tricks, Ralph Ingersoll ventured forth to do battle with the giants and come what may, he's putting up a fine scrap, after an emergency transfusion of an additional half million, the donor being philanthropic, pro-British, department store magnate, Marshal Field.

What's New

PM is highly personalized, and also highly departmentalized. Its photographic department is headed by Margaret Bourke White, than whom there are few more talented workers in the camera field. But that's common knowledge.

Here are a few examples of PM's differentials:

A weather report is made to read, "It's going to be somewhat mild for a day or two." Bob Brumby, a highly talented sports-writer captions a story, "You'd Never Think Burman Had to Fight That Dreadful Louis." Louis Kronenberger, the drama critic under his review of a new play, inserts a little box "What the Other Critics Said" quoting Atkinson, Watts, Mantle and Coleman so that readers may compare critical opinions at a glance. The radio page is tremendous in its scope and closely detailed—PM is the first newspaper to give radio the nod over movies as America's greatest entertainment industry. But the Labor page is something revolutionary. Here you find news of unionization, wage arbitrations, strikes all written with a human interest touch and featuring stuff most other papers don't dare touch. Typical of the policy, is Ingersoll's publishing the story of the controversy between PM and the Newspaper Guild after labor editor and Guildsman Leo Huberman had been discharged. There's a brilliant column by Ben Hecht: "One Thousand and One Afternoons in New York" the stories of which Hecht attributes to his "keeping out of night clubs." And PM offers the most striking British coverage of any American paper. Stories are larded liberally with diagrams and photos, and the captions are brilliant.

In a human interest way, PM has inherited the specific muckraking tradition of Consumers' Union, exploring bargain basements, exposing frauds and misrepresentations, and publicizing free of charge, the department store features which in the opinion of a highly competent staff can be classed as "special values."

PM makes a practise of printing no editorials, except—and this has been happening off and on—when Ingersoll has a particular point to make about U.S. national defense. Unfortunately, far from being a talented writer, Ingersoll's editorials plod along—weighted down by an overload of verbiage.

Expansive Paradox

Circulation figures started out with a boom, thereby upsetting the economic apperant, thanks to a masterful publicity campaign which had all of America hanging on the ropes for months. Then the bottom dropped out of Ingersoll's pet toy. Magazine articles and newspaper columnists expressed their disappointment. PM was accused of being a tool of British Imperialism in some quarters, a front for the Communist Daily Worker in others. Some prognosticated that without advertising it would fail, others claimed that its highly literary staff couldn't compete with New York's finest newsgeters. Some of the shareholders got frightened, others sat tight, but Ingersoll carried on doggedly in the face of a plummeting circulation curve. Then Field dug down deep in his jeans, and rumours flew that Ingersoll would be given the sack. But by this time PM had become a habit with some people, and according to the latest figures, their number is on the up. Incidentally, Ingersoll is still at the helm.

Music Notes

Montreal Orchestra

The program of Sunday afternoon's concert in His Majesty's Theatre will consist of the Scherzo from Mendelssohn's Midsummer Night's Dream, the Second Symphony of Beethoven and a Jig-Fugue by J. S. Bach, in an arrangement by Gustave Holst. The guest soloist is to be the American composer-pianist Anis Fuleihan, who will play his own first Piano Concerto accompanied by the strings of the orchestra, and the Grande Polonaise Brillante of Chopin.

Mr. Fuleihan's Second Concerto was given by the orchestra just two seasons ago, with Eugene List at the piano.

Concerts Symphoniques

The sixth concert in the impressive series offered by La Societe des Concerts Symphoniques de Montreal will take place next Tuesday, January 28 at Plateau Hall. The orchestra will be under the direction of the eminent Austrian conductor Dr. Fritz Stiedry who will perform among other works Debussy's Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun and Johannes Brahms First Symphony.

The outstanding music critic of the New York Herald Tribune, Mr. Vergil Thomson, wrote the following after a recent performance of Dr. Stiedry's New York Orchestra of the New Friends of Music at Carnegie Hall: "Fritz Stiedry is the freshest breeze of the season among conductors. No tempest he, nor Turkish bath either. His Bach is delicate and strong. His Schubert as cool and gentle and balmy as Vienna in springtime. . . .

"It doesn't have to impress anybody at all. Naturally, once that bondage broken, there is an infinity of beautiful music to play. Long may the Friends continue their superb performances of great music old and new! And long may Mr. Stiedry wave his baton over their diversified instrumental combinations." Tickets are available at Room 218, Windsor Hotel.

Scissors And Paste

"City of Sin"

It is commonly said that the most common, the most familiar things, though they be pregnant with novelty or importance, are the least appreciated. Familiarity may or may not breed contempt; that is a moot point. But familiarity certainly does breed neglect.

Perhaps those of us who are long-time residents of Montreal are guilty of overlooking many facets of its life that give the metropolis a claim on glamour. Or perhaps we are just not gifted with the sixth sense or the supernatural sight of a certain gentleman who is a recent editor of The Sheaf, students' newspaper of the University of Saskatchewan.

This gentleman (who, by the way, is employed by an international news agency's Montreal bureau) contributes a column on Montreal to The Sheaf. The column is titled quaintly—"In Old Hochelaga." The author, who would probably be an excellent gawker even at Prairie Junction, is "observing" Montreal with that eye for detail and that feeling for atmosphere that are the mark of the practised journalist.

The result of his investigation: Why, this is a wicked, sinful metropolis, with a murder every Sunday "with monotonous regularity." There is never any publicity attendant on these big-city crimes; no! The police just come and quietly capture the culprit.

The columnist's latest metropolitan murrur:

"Every Sunday with monotonous regularity Montreal has a murder. It adds spice to this turbulent anti-life. If you haven't any friends you can always talk about the last murder.

"A few weeks ago, on Sunday, a landlady wouldn't give her tenant any hot water for shaving. So he chased her into the yard with a butcher knife. She yelled blue murder, and a passing bus driver muttered (in effect)—'Look at those wags.' The tenant pulled a Mussolini—stabbed her in the back.

"Just recently a butcher, on Sunday, said some derogatory, banal, and puerile things about the army. A cripple frowned at him and wagged a threatening digit. He got butchered.

"They don't have manhunts or red headlines. The police just cruise up and undramatically put the fiend away.

"Montrealers don't go to church on Sundays. They stay home and murder their friends.

"I can hardly wait till Sunday."

Crime, however, is not the only thing that calls forth our columnist friend's lyricism. He also gives some attention to the trees on the McGill campus—"monsters" as he calls them—and to the students passing beneath them, all of whom, we are given to understand, wear derbies.

"Trees at McGill—magnificent, tradition-reeking trees. Monsters. They stand, majestic sentinels, omnipresent, omniscient. They seem to smile as the be-derbied, be-booted student strides smugly to school." Etc., etc.

Lost

In December, prior to the Christmas vacation, a student at British Columbia lost a book. Admittedly that little event is nothing more than the dog-bites-man variety of news. But the notice which the book-owner inserted in the Ulyssey recently deserves mention, or rather quotation:

"Last December a very important event occurred (and I don't mean exams or Xmas). Well anyhow, I lost a book. I don't know where, or I would go back and get it. Why any person would take the thing is beyond me; I only have it because I need it in my business. It would not enhance anybody's library, since it is a dirty red colour, with beer stains on the front.

"It's name is Problems in Marketing and since my name is inside there is no reason why the finder could not return it." . . .

One young lady we know said to a few girls of her acquaintance:

"Girls, I would like you to meet a fellow . . ."

She received the following questions:

From the—

Chorus Girl: "How much has he got?"

Working Girl: "What does he do?"

Church Girl: "What Church does he belong to?"

Society Girl: "Is his family in the Social Register?"

College Girl: "WHERE IS HE?"

—Journal.

"You are a little goose," remarked a young M.D. playfully to the girl he was engaged to marry.

"Of course I am," was the laughing response, "haven't I got a quack?"

There will be open challenging for two weeks and closed for one week or as the two players higher on the ladder prefer. First, second, third, fourth and fifth places on the ladder will be awarded 25, 20, 15, 10, 5 points respectively at the conclusion of the tournament. Players are asked to keep track of their challenges.

In the Meets each event will have points for first, second and third place 5, 3, 2, respectively. However these points will only be used in scoring and the final results will take in first, second and third places in the entire meet awarding them 50, 30 and 20 points respectively.

Rumour has it that the McGill coeds might grace the campus for the first time with the Seigniory Club's Inter City Trophy, at the conclusion of the Meet this weekend. A strong team of four coeds has entered, and if their past records mean anything they should offer some really stiff opposition. Frances McLeod who has done some brilliant skiing for McGill during the past three years, won the Taschereau race on Mount Tremblant two years ago, while Betty Smith placed high on the list when she represented McGill at Middlebury last year. Sylvia Grove, Ski Manager won the recent Intersection ski meet that took place at St. Adele, and Joan Anderson has shown consistent skiing ability during the past two years.

It remains to be seen whether they can overcome the experience that the Penguins have gained from their continuous series of triumphs.

Another interesting item connected with the coed skiers is the fact that McGill is to be represented at Middlebury by Sylvia Grove and Betty Smith. These two coeds will proceed south the weekend of February 13-16 where they will ski with and be entertained by Middlebury.

The Physical Education Department has announced the formation of a new swimming class for beginners. This class will be under the able direction of Miss Rhoda

JAMES CLAIMS CANADA NEEDS NO INFLATION

Principal Denies Hepburn's Charges on Monetary Expansion

ISSUES STATEMENT

Will Analyze Demands in Full at Toronto Meeting During February

McGill's Principal, Dr. F. Cyril James, in a carefully worded statement issued to the press yesterday afternoon took exception to the charges made by Premier Mitch. Hepburn of Ontario that monetary expansion would soon be required to finance the Canadian war effort.

Dr. James, one of the world's outstanding authorities on problems of money and banking, has made clear his views on inflation in his recent book, "The Economics of Money, Credit and Banking". In that work he points out, "budgetary inflations, in the past, have invariably ended in monetary crisis that, all too often, brought economic anarchy in their train, while business inflations have monotonously terminated in crisis, liquidation and depression."

Contests Hepburn Demands.

The statement, issued to contest demands by Premier Hepburn at the recent, abruptly terminated, conference on Dominion-provincial relations, briefly outlines the views which Dr. James will analyze in full at a meeting of the Empire Club in Toronto on February 6. The subject which will be discussed on that occasion is "Inflation and War Finance" and the Principal has postponed detailed comment on Hepburn's proposals until that date.

Statement Released.

In yesterday's press release Dr. James stated: "... 'Mr. Hepburn, in the somewhat contentious statement regarding per capita currency that he issued yesterday, seems to ignore the fact that people pay their bills by cheque as well as by notes and coin. The spending power of the countries that he quotes is determined by the aggregate notes and deposits at the disposal of the community, and on a per capita basis the figures should be $210 per capita for England (calculated at the present exchange rate of $4.40 to the £.); $292 for the United States (also calculated at the present exchange rate of $1.10 Canadian to $1.00 U.S.); and $326 for Canada. These figures which are necessarily approximate clearly reverse the order of magnitude that is suggested by Mr. Hepburn, and indicate that Canada has less need than either of the other countries for monetary expansion.

"It should also be pointed out that there is no economic sanction for the contention that Canada's war effort is being impeded by lack of currency or of bank deposits. The money available for war activities is that in the hands of the Dominion Government, not that possessed by individuals, and the only satisfactory argument that would justify resort to a policy as dangerous as inflation has always proved itself to be would involve a frank statement that the Dominion Government is compelled to create new money because a recalcitrant public is unwilling to pay taxes or purchase war savings certificates. Mr. Hepburn has not presented evidence to prove any such contention."

700 CROWD HALL TO HEAR READINGS

NOYES GIVES LECTURE

Poet Reads Own Works Before Students and Faculty

TWO LECTURES COMING

Will Admit General Public to Lectures Next Week on Aspects of Poetry

Yesterday afternoon Alfred Noyes, C.B.E., LL.D., Litt.D., gave a number of selected readings of his own poems to a record gathering in Moyse Hall. While the seating capacity is four hundred sixty, the total attendance was seven hundred. The Honourable Cyrus Macmillan, M.A., M.P., Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science and head of the Department of English, introduced Dr. Noyes.

Before giving readings of his poems Dr. Noyes gave his conception of what poetry is. He registered his belief in a very old tradition that poetry is a kind of music. "Some people think that poetry must be artificial but it is not so. Tides, stars, human heart—all beat in rhythm," Dr. Noyes said that the poet is forced to play his part and is caught up in the rhythm. The real poet finds that rhythm and metre are a help rather than a hindrance.

First Reading

Dr. Noyes gave as his first reading a ballad entitled "Sherwood." He stated that under the surface of the poem is the attempt to suggest what happens when memories are wakened.

In "The Admiral's Ghost" the thought is that Drake always returns to help his country. The people of Devonshire believe that Nelson is the ghost of Drake. Dr. Noyes said that it is the ghost in all of us that counts—the soul; that these ghosts have a real and valuable meaning for the people.

The next poem was taken from the medieval epistle of Pope Pius II, and was entitled "Forty Singing Seamen," in the words of the poet "a frivolous poem about the sea."

"The Barrel Organ," a poem familiar to students of English, is written about London. The change in rhythm represents the change in tone on the organ. Dr. Noyes expressed the thought that through times of happier days memory will help to bring into accord what we are thinking of London to-day.

Dr. Noyes introduced what he believed to be an entirely new metre in his poem, "Mountain Laurel." It is a poem of a different kind written on this side of the ocean after a visit to the music festival at Norfolk, Connecticut. The poem reflects the poet's thoughts while riding through New England when the laurel was in bloom. Dr. Noyes explained that the metre of the poem was not dictated by a metronome but by the instrument on the left side of the body.

Unpublished Poem

The last three poems read were "The Highwayman"; two short poems, "Wizards," a lyric from "The Torchbearers" in which the poet attempts to express the true relation between science and religion; "On The Eve of Invasion." The last poem is one which is as yet unpublished; it expresses the thought that the people of England are praying for invasion because it may bring the war to an end.

Dr. Noyes will give his next lectures on Monday, January 27, and Wednesday, January 29. The subjects for these two lectures are respectively "The Aspects of Modern Poetry" and "The Relationship of Poetry and Reality." These lectures are to be given in Moyse Hall at five o'clock, and they will be open to the general public.

The Cosmopolitan Club will hold its skating party tomorrow, as announced, but will not be confined to members as was previously stated. Non-members wishing to attend, however, will be asked to contribute 20 cents towards the expenses of the affair. There is no charge for members.

The event will begin 8.30 p.m., when the skaters will meet at the McGill rink on McTavish street. When skating has been enjoyed to the full, the group will adjourn to the Pit where refreshments will be served and the party will end with dancing to the nickelodeon. A short committee meeting will

STUDENT LIFE IN FRANCE IS TOPIC

Professor Darbelnet Speaks Before Societe Francaise

French Students More Intellectually Developed, Need Fewer Social Activities

In a discussion of the French universities today before the Societe Francaise, Professor Darbelnet stated that in the first place the French Universities were "Universities d'Etat," under the direction of the Minister of Education and dependent on the state for expenses. He pointed out that some of them date back to the Middle Ages, such as the University of Paris, Montpellier, and others. Besides the "universities d'Etat" there are "universities libres" which are called "Faculties Catholiques" and are not dependent on the state.

Before a student enters a university he must obtain the Bachelaurate degree. Although he is eligible for entrance without the Bachelaurate degree he cannot get "Grades Supérieures" nor any degree at the termination of his course.

The regulations of the Universities are characterized by extreme liberality. The Freshmen are treated with the same consideration, and enjoy the same privileges as graduate students. Attendance at lectures is voluntary and consequently there are fewer contacts between professors and students.

As a counterpart for liberality however, the universities of France are conspicuous for their absence of social life.

Though the "Quartier Latin" has lost much of its former color he continued it is still pervaded with the student atmosphere. South of Paris is the "cité universitaire," with its cluster of student buildings, cafes, a hospital, and a post office.

By the time a French student enters the University he is older than the English ones and therefore more developed intellectually. Consequently social life is unnecessary. This also has its advantages in keeping the student free from distractions and giving him more time for study.

MEDICAL STUDENT DELIVERS PAPER

Account of Medicine Practised During Civil War Given

An account of the Civil War in the United States woven around the Southern General Stonewall Jackson and the military medicine of the time, such as it was, was given at the last meeting of the Osler Society by Arthur Bradsher. At the outbreak of war in 1861, the army command of both sides was the scene of hilarity and good cheer, everyone believing that the trouble would end and all could return home. This was not so; in 1862 Jackson was put in command of the armies of the Shenandoah Valley. He led with a dominating command, slaughtering prisoners on one hand and praying to Jehovah on the other.

The doctor in the field who followed Jackson carried a ball of opium in one pocket and a ball of "blue mass" mercurio cathartic in the other for diarrhea and colic which gave the troops more trouble than wounds.

Alcohol was reserved for the treatment of malaria, the medical corps seemingly being very susceptible and consuming most of the prophylaxis. There was a severe shortage of drugs. Those that were available were costly; baking soda sold for $2.75 per pound and French brandy at $52 a gallon.

The field hospital might be any house where amputation, resection or lithotomy were performed under an anesthesia of chloroform if any were available. As a result of this period of butcher surgery the general trend was toward a greater conservatism.

On May 2 1863 while Jackson was returning after dark from an inspection, he was shot by a patrol

Arts Notices Indicate Male View on Sadie

Unions Formed - Oppose Wives of Female

Yesterday evidence presented itself as an indication of the trend of male thought on the campus concerning Miss Sadie Hawkins' arrival next week. The following two notices appeared yesterday on the notice board in the Arts Building:

"No I'm Not But I Don't Give A Damn Club."

Rules for membership:
1. Membership is restricted to males only.
2. No member may accept a bid for the so-called Sadie Hawkins' Week.
3. If any member violates clause two he shall automatically be expelled (booted out).
4. All members must aid their fellow-members in resisting the advances of the wives of Sadie.

The second notice which appeared gives evidence of the general feeling of the males on the campus. It reads as follows:

"Fight!"

Don't be a scab. Join:

The brotherhood of Amalgamated Associated Wallflowers (males).

The Voice of the workers (They will work February 1-7).

Brotherhood slogan: Fight for the Union, the Union fights for you.

Membership drive—February 1-7. It was announced last night that plans for the study group to meet in Redpath Library are well under way. The study group will meet the week of February 1-7.

PLAYERS CLUB HOLDS GENERAL MEETING TODAY

All Members Must Be Present for Important Discussion

NEWCOMERS WELCOME

Anyone Interested in Any Phase of Play Production Urged to Attend

A general meeting of the Players' Club will be held today in the Music Room of the Union. This meeting is in connection with the coming production of the Wodehouse comedy "Good Morning Bill" on February 13th, 14th, and 15th.

"The production of a play," said Bob Thomson, President of the Players' Club, "does not only mean just the necessity of a bunch of actors and a director. These are only some of the many phases which go towards making a successful production. Besides these we need people to look after make-up, a stage crew, a scenery construction crew, a publicity department and a programme and ticket committee."

ALL INTERESTED INVITED.

At this meeting, to which all members of the club and any other students who are interested are invited, the President will discuss the activities which have taken place this year, and he will also outline plans for the future. The meeting will also be addressed by Mr. John Mellor, the Director, who will speak on the actual production of the play itself.

The heads of the various committees have already been appointed. Jim Armstrong is in charge of publicity; Herb Hills is looking after the programmes, and Lorna Gilday is property-mistress. Bob Esdaile who designed the magnificent sets for "Richard of Bordeaux" is designing the sets. Jim Morton is in charge of the construction crew, while Murdoch Harvie will be stage director.

CHEMISTS TO SEE MOVIES OF NYLON

A.I.Ch.E. Meet Monday in Main Lecture Theatre of Chemistry Building

A film on nylon illustrated with motion pictures will be shown at the A.I.Ch.E. meeting this Monday, at 5 p.m. in the Main Lecture Theatre of the Chemistry Building. Nylon is the synthetic resin which is coming in for a great deal of attention these days, and the C.I.L. by arrangement with whom the picture is being shown, are arranging for a lecturer to be present to explain the different parts of the process as they appear on the screen.

It is expected that the whole process from raw materials to the finished product will be shown in detail, and also the various uses to which this important resin is put. Although much attention has recently been directed to the use of Nylon in stockings, both from a technical and an aesthetic viewpoint, it has many other industrial

SCM HEAR SPEAKER AT CHAPEL SERVICE

The Very Reverend John Dixon, Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, will be the guest speaker at the S.C.M. Student Chapel Service to be held this Sunday evening at 7.30 p.m. in Divinity Hall.

The speaker, who is a graduate of Trinity College, Toronto, and who formerly served in the Governor-General's Church, Ottawa, is particularly interested in student thought and attitude regarding the vital aspects of religion. He has chosen, consequently, for his Sunday address, to deal with the world mission of the Church in social reconstruction with special reference to the role that students can play in this connection.

All students are invited to attend.

NEWMAN CLUB HEAR McNALLY

First Bi-Monthly Meeting to Be Held Sunday

Executive Announce Newman Formal Date Changed to 13th February

Dr. W. J. McNally, of the McGill Department of Oology, will be the speaker at the first bi-monthly meeting of the Newman Club for 1941, which will be held on Sunday, January 28, at 10 a.m. The service is to take place in Congress Hall, St. Patrick's church. Dr. McNally will speak on "Balance in Regard to Aviation."

The executive of the club has announced a change in the date of the Newman formal, which will be held in the Union Ballroom, on the 13th of February, instead of the 21st, as previously stated. This change is due to the fact the Engineers are planning to hold their Plumber's Ball on the 21st. Blake Sewell will provide the music for the dance, and tickets are to be sold at $4.00 a couple. The two grill rooms, and the reading room will be at the disposal of the dancers as well as the Ballroom.

The committee, made up of members of the different faculties, will be announced next week. In the meantime, further information about the dance may be obtained from Chuck Bronstetter, at El. 0955.

UBYSSEY SPONSORS BASKETBALL MEET

Thirty-Two Teams Enter College Paper Sponsored 'Chink' Tournament

Vancouver, B.C. — (C.U.P.) — Thirty-two three-man teams, making a total of almost 100 men, will play first round matches in the Ubysey's basketball "Chink" tournament this week, starting a schedule which will ultimately decide U.B.C.'s "Chink Champs" for 1941.

The contest, sponsored by the Sports Staff of the Ubysey, is creating widespread interest on the campus and is proving to be the most popular sporting event of the year. "Chink," miniature basketball, played by teams of three men instead of five, has long been a favorite game at U.B.C. and the tour-

PLUMBERS HOLD MASS MEETING SATURDAY NOON

Engineers Will Decide Whether Ball Will Be Held

GRAD PARTY POSSIBLE

Rumour That Event Had Been Set for February 21st

A full meeting of the Engineering Undergraduates Society is scheduled for this Saturday at 12 o'clock noon in room 33 of the Engineering Building. A number of matters will be discussed at this meeting, among them the date for the annual Engineering frolic, the "Plumbers' Ball."

The "Plumbers' Ball" is sponsored by the Engineering Undergraduates Society and the rumour had previously been current that the date for the event had been set for the 21st of February. This date has, however, yet to be ratified at a formal meeting of the Undergraduate body.

Perhaps No Plumbers' Ball

Informed sources state, however, that there is the likelihood that an attempt will be made to railroad through a motion to kill the "Plumbers Ball" for this year, and have a Graduation Party instead for the Class of '41. Those responsible for the move are expected to attend as a group, and thus gain control of a majority of the votes.

Dave Haviland, Treasurer of the Engineering Undergraduates Society stated last night that if the attendance of those students who are in Chemical Engineering is of the same proportion as it has been in the past, those in Mechanical Engineering are sure to pull the wool over their eyes.

CO-EDS HEAR WOMEN AND WAR DISCUSSED

The Program Committee of the Women's Union have asked Mrs. Marcus Dinsdale, a Fellow at Newman College, Cambridge, to speak before the women students in the Common Room at R.V.C. on Tuesday, January 28th, at 5 p.m. She has chosen as her topic, "English Women and the War."

Mrs. Dinsdale has had a distinguished academic career at Cambridge, where she specialized in history. She has delivered lectures before a number of other groups such as the Empire Club, and the Toronto Chamber of Commerce.

LEARN TO SWIM CAMPAIGN

The list for the Second Class in the "Learn to Swim" Campaign has now been posted in the Locker Room and all persons who have not yet learned to swim are asked to sign their names thereon. If you missed out on the class that was organized last term you now have another opportunity to learn the art of "Aqua-torial Locomotion." Don't delay! It is of vital importance to everyone to know how to swim. It's also good fun and great exercise so sign up today. Classes are to be held at the K. of C. Pool from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

WEEKLY HANDICAPS SUGGESTED

R. R. Kingsland and R. A. Bourne, Manager and Captain, respectively, of the Swimming Club, are working on a series of weekly handicaps for men interested in Competitive Swimming. Details of the Meets have not yet been received but "Bob" Kingsland assured us that he would have these ready for publication in a day or two. The general idea is to hold weekly meets featuring different events at each meet with possible repetitions on the more popular events. Swimmers would be graded on their past performance and handicapped accordingly. Hence, all those interested in competitive swimming, whether accomplished swimmers or not would have something to work for and would be assured some keen contests of speed and skill.

WATER POLO

An Inter-Company Water Polo League is now in process of being organized. Company and Platoon Sports representatives are asked to canvass all enthusiasts of this sport and to list same on Locker Room Notice Board.

Team captains and managers are to be appointed as soon as sufficient men are lined up to warrant this. Games will commence in the near future. They have been held up temporarily to permit one or two Companies to bring their teams up to full strength.

Persons who desire to play and have so far failed to get on a team are asked to sign the Locker Room List giving their Name, Company and Platoon. For those who wish to brush up a little on their swimming the K. of C. Pool will be available every day during the week from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

SQUAD LEADERS

All members of the Squad Leaders Corps and any others who are interested in the teaching end of Physical Training and Gymnastic Work are reminded that practices are being held every Monday and Thursday from 5:00 p.m. to 6:00 and from 6:00 p.m. until 7:00. For those who care to take them a series of tests are always available. These are quite elementary in nature and may be tried whenever the candidate feels that he is prepared to pass them. Those who qualify will be presented with special Squad Leaders Crests and will be called on to assist with the P.T. program of the M.R.T.B. If you are interested then come out to the next practice.

BOXERS... WRESTLERS... FENCERS

Boxers, Wrestlers and Fencers who intend to take part in the Big Open Assault scheduled in the not too distant future should be attending at least two practices per week. If you haven't started training yet you should do so immediately. The Locker Room Notice Board will tell you when the next class in your particular sport is scheduled. Check today and be out to the next practice.

events, will get underway at eleven in the morning, daylight saving time, on Hill 71. The recent light snowfalls have made skiing conditions excellent, and if the freshmen continue to shine as in their last performances, the winning times should be just as impressive.

The cross country follows after lunch at 2:30 p.m. The course will be set by Don Tirrel, who, with ten years experience in this line, promises a 4 to 5 mile course, not as he puts it, too difficult for the beginners and yet not too simple for the old timers.

POST ENTRIES ACCEPTED.

While post entries will be accepted, the draw is made from the entry lists posted in the various buildings, and post entries will be run last.

Moore, Harry Scott, and Bob Townsend.

One of the newcomers, Foster, will specialize in the jumping division and from his form while pulling a first at last Saturday's Cote des Neiges jump, he should fill this post ably. Fred Moore may have to pull his last year's specialty of entering all events while the rest of the team will take on two entries apiece.

The Redmen will travel to the border at their own expense and will there be met by a Dartmouth reception committee who will escort them to Hanover and pay all expenses while in the States.

part of the period, with Billy Taylor splitting the Canuck defence only to be stopped by a fine save by Gardiner. A few minutes later, Quilty made a nice rush but missed an open net. About the middle of the period, the Adams, Demers, Lach line did everything but put the puck in the Toronto net. This drew a great hand from the crowd. At 15:12, Schirmer took a pass from young Billy Taylor and put the Leafs ahead with a beautiful shot into the mesh. With only five minutes to go the Canucks put on the pressure with daring rushes being led by Goupille and Portland. Nick Metz broke away with only Gardiner to beat, but was robbed on a beautiful save thus ending the game with the score three to two for Toronto.

His rally was brave but a hopeless one, for several days later he developed pleuropneumonia caused by a fall from a litter while he was being brought in from the field.

A Professor of English was describing to his class a visit he had made in the capacity of a mere sightseer to a mental hospital. . . . He reported that there were the usual number of inmates who regarded themselves as (a) Queen Elizabeth, (b) the Emperor of Japan, (c) the president of the C.P.R. . . . But the most interesting of these chaps, related the prof, was the one who considered himself to be nothing more nor less than a champagne glass. . . . He would walk about and sit down with the greatest of care, for, as he said, "I have to be so careful all the time. I might break."—Varsity.
